Building Modern Turkey State Space

Building Modern Turkey offers a critical account of how the built environment mediated Turkey's transition from a pluralistic (multiethnic and multireligious) empire into a modern, homogenized nation-state following the collapse of the Ottoman Empire at the end of World War I. Zeynep Kezer argues that the deliberate dismantling of ethnic and religious enclaves and the spatial practices that ensued were as integral to conjuring up a sense of national unity and facilitating the operations of ...

From Spain to Greece, there are many mosques that were converted to churches; the Great Mezquita of Cordoba is one prominent example. What was unusual about Hagia Sophia was that in 1934, under Ataturk, with Turkey becoming a modern nation-state, the historical building was transformed into a museum, a secular space.

Indeed, in the first piece we authored, written in the aftermath of Erdogan's security detail's attack on protesters in Washington in 2017, Michael sought to highlight the similarities between the Erdoğan regime in Turkey and the modern Republican Party in the United States, both in discourse and political practice — a comparison that ...

Michael Brooks and the Meaning of Socialist Internationalism

Secularism is an ambiguous concept that could be understood to refer to anticlericalism, atheism, state neutrality toward religion, the separation of religion from state, banishment of religious symbols from the public sphere, or disestablishment (separation of church and state), although the latter meaning would not be relevant in the Islamic context, since Islam has no institution ...
